By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 14.—A man and a woman were killed and five other persons were injured when two automobiles, travelling at terrific speed, crashed head on in Pelham Park, near Eastchester road, early today.

The dead are Ida Brown, an actress, and Walter Delmar. Both were crushed to death.

The cars were travelling 40 miles an hour when they collided. Instantly both were heaps of wreckage. The debris caught fire from a smashed oil tank.

William Greenfield and Carter Marshall, owners of the two cars, both of whom were hurt, were held in $1,000 bail each by Coroner Healy on the technical charge of homicide.

Greenfield and James J. Ray escaped death by being hurled twenty feet from their car, but both sustained serious internal wounds.

PARLIAMENT FACES VITAL QUESTIONS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Sept. 14.—England's most momentous session of parliament for centuries opened today. Questions vital to the life of the empire must be settled before it closes. Chief among them are the following:

Adoption of a budget and the promulgation of new taxes and other agencies to increase the revenues, for England must bear a big part of the financial burdens of her allies as well as her own.

Adoption of a definite program as regards pensions for the families of soldiers.

Adoption of measures to increase the army.

A hard fight will be made in favor of conscription and, although compulsory service is opposed by such powerful members of the government as Premier Asquith and Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey, the acceptance of conscription as a national necessity would not surprise the nation. Recent utterances of Minister of Munitions David Lloyd-George indicate that he would rank among the leaders of the side of conscription.

Before parliament convened a cabinet meeting was held and King George held a privy council at Buckingham Palace.

An important statement from Lord Kitchener, secretary of state for war, will be one of the features early in the session. Lord Kitchener will speak on the progress of the recruiting campaign, and his statement will probably introduce the subject of conscription.

John Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalists, has called a meeting of the heads of the Irish party to discuss the course of the nationalist movement during the present session.

The leaders of the labor party will confer tomorrow for the same purpose. It is reported that influential members of the labor party are bitter against conscription.

The question of finances will likely come up the middle of next week when Chancellor of the Exchequer Reginald McKenna will explain the needs of the treasury.

England's financial condition at present is such that the government is threatened with a daily deficit of $1,250,000 as a result of the growing cost of carrying on the war.

In connection with the financial aspect all eyes are now turned toward the United States, where the Anglo-American commissioners are trying to arrange a huge war loan, the amount of which may be $1,000,000,000.

There is a growing demand for pensions to support dependent families whose bread-winners are at the front.

Minister Lloyd-George is in a position to report progress on the acceleration of the output of war supplies. He is not yet wholly satisfied with the amount of production. As the situation stands now, men are giving their services faster than they can be equipped.

Among the documents laid before the cabinet was a statement from Lord Kitchener, estimating that the number of troops necessary on the front during the approaching winter is far greater than those already in France and Belgium.

Carle Divorce Granted.

Judge Hasbrouck has granted Olive Stoffer Carle an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, William Carle, of Saugerties. The suit was tried at supreme court chambers on September 4, and was defended by Mr. Carle. It was brought out by the evidence that Mr. and Mrs. Carle were married at Elizabethtown, Columbia county, on April 30, 1898, and that there were no children. The wife complained of being in Saugerties and having two children by her.

GOVERNORS' SALARY TO BE DOUBLED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Sept. 14.—To silence a popular clamor which has long been heard, the Constitutional Convention, in its session as favoring an increase in the salary of the governor, having adopted a proposition to double it, so that if the people so will the chief executive of New York state will receive $20,000 a year. The increase will not take effect until 1917, however.

Under the present order of things, though the chief executive, the governor receives less for his services than judges or public service commissioners whom he has power to appoint. All of the public service commissioners who receive $15,000 each, are appointed by the governor. The judges of the court of appeals and of the supreme court, when vacancies exist, are designated by the executive.

The exact language of the proposed amendment increasing the salary of the governor follows:

"The governor shall receive for his services an annual salary of ten thousand dollars until the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, after which he shall receive for his services an annual salary of twenty thousand dollars. There shall be provided for him a suitable and furnished executive residence."

In the proposed amendment as presented there was no clause stating that the increase should not take place until 1917. The intention of the framers of the amendment was that the increase should take effect in 1916, Governor Whitman, however, in a written communication to the delegates to the Constitutional Convention, called attention to the fact that the law prohibited that a public official should have his salary raised during his term. He asked that the proposed amendment be altered so as to provide that the increase should not be provided for until 1917. The term of office of Governor Whitman expires on January 1, 1917, unless he shall be re-elected for an additional term of two years.

Because of the personal expenses of a governor, who is required to entertain and be active socially, it has long been thought that the salary he receives at the present time is inadequate. Called upon to attend functions in every section of the state, to give addresses, to receive executive visitors to the public and to personally see that distinguished visitors are given the courtesies they are entitled to while in the capital city.

Although the salary of the governor is to be submitted to the people for their consideration, the clause in the original proposition that his term of office be extended to four years, was eliminated by the delegates to the Constitutional Convention. It was the plan of the committee on governor and other state officers to have it adopted, but all efforts to accomplish that end were futile. Likewise was the short ballot proposition amended, the majority of the delegates being of the opinion that it would be an unwise act to confer upon a governor the additional power that would result were the ideas of the committee above mentioned endorsed. Consequently, the increase in salary with the term of office to remain as it is and but three elective offices instead of five struck from the ballot, form the two principal amendments so far as the executive department is concerned. The governor is given additional powers so far as the state finances are concerned, under the budget proposition, which while distinctly separate, has a bearing upon the prerogatives of the executive heretofore not enjoyed and which will prevail if the people so will.

RAISED SUBMARINE F. 4.

(A view of the bow of the U. S. submarine F-4 as she lay between the pontoons in the dry-dock of the Pearl Harbor Navy Yard at Honolulu.)

This is the first photograph of the ill-fated submarine after she was raised from the bottom of Honolulu Harbor, where she mysteriously sank on March 25, with the loss of twenty-two men. She is shown resting between the pontoons which were instrumental in raising her and conveying her to the dry dock at the Pearl Harbor Navy Yard.

The raising of the F-4 was an unprecedented feat of marine engineering. A dead weight of about 250 tons, she was lifted 300 feet to the surface, two large mud scows being used to support the elevating machinery.

Owing to decomposition and the inroads of marine creatures which penetrated the interior through several gashes in the submarine's shell, few of the bodies were identified. The F type of submarine has been pronounced defective by the naval authorities, and the remaining boats of this type probably will be scrapped.

FOUR DEMOCRATS FILE DECLINATIONS

Monday was the last day for filing declarations with the board of election commissioners at the court house and the local Democratic machine was struck a hard blow when four of the hand-picked candidates refused absolutely to be the "goats" and turning a deaf ear on the entreaties of the party "leaders" filed the declarations of the machine's thrust upon them by the party "leaders." The offices left vacant by the declination of the candidates are 130 miles behind.

Alderman-at-large — This office was declined by Joseph A. Sheppard, Supervisor of Second Ward—This office declined by Jacob H. Stewart, Alderman of Fifth Ward—This was declined by Michael J. McNulty, Alderman of Twelfth Ward—Declined by Edward L. Brower.

Rumors were rife on Monday that these four men had refused to be "goats" and every effort was made to induce them to change their minds but without success.

The fact that the local Democratic political machine is in a badly demoralized condition was never more conclusively shown than by the refusal of four of the hand-picked candidates to run for the office selected for them by the machine.

The machine had used every effort to secure "goats" in order to present a complete city ticket for the consideration of the Democratic voters on primary day, but their efforts were unavailing. With the declinations filed on Monday the Democratic machine is up against the hard proposition of picking "goats" for the following offices which are vacant:

Alderman-at-large.
Supervisor in the Second, Eighth and Eleventh wards.
Alderman in the First, Second, Fifth, Tenth and Twelfth wards.

No Other Declinations Filed.

The Democratic party was the only party whose candidates filed declinations, and the party was the only party which offered a hand-picked slate for the consideration of its members.

With the withdrawal of the more prominent Democrats the Democratic machine has been badly battered which accounts for the fact that it has been unable to secure enough candidates to fill out a ticket.

Moving Voters Lose Vote.

Attorney General Woodbury has filed an opinion which holds that a voter who moves out of the primary district in which he is enrolled can not vote in either his old or new district, but loses his enrollment for the ensuing primary. This means that if a voter has enrolled in one ward of the city and later moved to another ward that he will not be allowed to vote in either ward on Primary Day, September 28. In the same opinion the attorney general holds that a voter who changes his residence but not to the extent of actually moving out of the ward in which he is enrolled may still vote on Primary Day. He also points out that for the primaries there is no provision similar to that which permits a person moving within his registration district to inform the registration board of his removal and have it noted. He holds that lack of this provision in the case of primary enrollment is not fatal, and that so long as the voter remains in the district he retains his enrollment.

SANT' ANNA FIRE OF INCENDIARY ORIGIN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 14.—A dispatch received today from Captain Francis Pavy of the Fabre liner Sant' Anna strengthened the belief that the fire on that ship was of incendiary origin. The blaze broke out in the baggage of third class passengers on Sunday night about 11 o'clock and Captain Pavy reported that it spread "quickly and violently."

For more than nine hours the conflagration raged in hold No. 2 before it was finally extinguished, but despite the fierceness of the blaze no deaths resulted nor were any members of the crew nor any of the 1,764 passengers wounded.

The following radiogram, which was sent by Captain Pavy via the Spanish steamship Manuel Calvo and the Cape Race wireless station, was received by agents of the Fabre line today:

"Fire started in the baggage of third class passengers. It spread quickly and violently at half past 11 last night."

"Fire was under control at six o'clock this (Monday) morning and was extinguished at 9 o'clock."

Later the following message was received from Captain Comberous of the Fabre liner Roma:

"Sant' Anna fire in No. 2 hold extinguished. Ship proceeding to Fayal (Azores). Ancona escorted. No deaths. No wounded. We are 130 miles behind."

This message was likewise relayed by the Manuel Calvo and the Cape Race wireless station.

News of the quenching of the fire allayed the fears of the representatives in this city of the American government, as there were more than 1,700 Italian reservists on board.

A rigid investigation of the fire will be made and all the third class passengers will be subjected to the strictest scrutiny before they are allowed to leave the ship.

Kindergarten Opens.

The Kindergarten School of Miss Dora Costello on Washington avenue, opened on Monday morning with a fine attendance of little people. So many of the pupils of this popular school graduated into the public schools of our city last year, that the personnel of the school this year is almost entirely new. It was a pretty sight yesterday to watch the "newly acquainted" proceedings of the school, for that is what the opening day of the school really is, a "getting acquainted." On a table in the school room were placed the games and materials used in the school. While parents were busy registering their children, the little tots, for the most part about four years old, began to cast longing eyes at that table of pretty things. Finally the attraction grew too strong for even childish timidity, and they found their way to the pretty colored beads, worsteds, bright paper, etc. Then a shy investigation followed and before they knew just how it all happened the little folks were all having a good time and Mary and Susan and Harry and James were no longer strangers, but friends at Miss Costello's Kindergarten.

Jack says he is 39 years old.

TROOPS READY FOR MEXICAN BANDITS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 14.—All available American troops in the Brownsville district are concentrated on the Rio Grande front today to intercept bands of armed Mexicans who are trying to reach United States soil to aid the bandits who are being rounded up in various hiding places. Martial law prevails through the entire lower Rio Grande valley.

Five troops of cavalry which had been held at Fort Brown for an emergency were called out late last night and ordered to a point ten miles below here when the military authorities were notified that more than 200 Mexicans had already crossed the river, and that others were preparing to do so.

A pitched battle is believed to be imminent between these American soldiers and the invading Mexicans. A report reached here early today that the Americans and Mexicans had already engaged in a skirmish, but it gave no details as to the casualties.

The Americans are bitter over the killing of two of their comrades in an ambush by Mexicans near Santa Maria yesterday. Three different patrols are now searching the Santa Maria district for the Mexicans. It is reported that the leader of the Mexicans was recognized as a man formerly well-known in the Carranza army.

Hundreds of border residents have left their ranches and gone to San Antonio and other interior points. All reports show that the Mexicans are becoming bolder daily in their campaign of depredation.

A message from San Benito states that an American rancher found some Mexican bandits looting his home when he returned from a short trip, and killed five of them.

PEACEFUL SOLUTION OF GERMAN DISPUTE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 14.—Hopes for a complete adjustment of all existing differences with Germany and Austria were expressed in official circles today. Direct diplomacy has been substituted for long drawn out negotiations and more practical results are expected. Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, clothed with broad powers from his home government, will hold almost daily conferences with Secretary Lansing. He will endeavor to reconcile the views of Berlin with the views of Washington. He, himself, is very hopeful of the outcome. Administration officials, while not sharing his extreme optimism, believe that the skies seem to be clearing.

The German ambassador frankly admits that the involved language of the Arabic note is responsible for the present situation. He had believed a complete settlement of the entire submarine controversy certain. And he has told Secretary Lansing that hereafter he personally will interpret Berlin's wishes.

In the meantime Ambassador Dumbra is reported to be packing up preparatory to leaving the country. He wants to go home "on leave" so as to aid his government in avoiding the serious problem of picking a successor during the present crisis. By being absent on leave and to report to his home government he also would make it easier for the United States to continue Ambassador Penfield in Vienna, while doing business with an Austrian charge d'affaires here in Washington. Persons close to the Austrian embassy here believe that the orders for his recall already have been slanted Washingtonward, although the state department still is without official word from Vienna.

It was learned today that Ambassador von Bernstorff already has reassured Secretary Lansing regarding the secured modification of the orders to submarine commanders to observe the regulations of international law in the conduct of their operations. On the contrary, he said, the orders are of such stringent character that any commander disobeying them was court-martialed. And because of this penalty, the ambassador explained, Germany has been loath to doubt the report of the commander who sank the Arabic.

He justified his course on the ground that he feared attack," explained an associate of the German embassy today. "Had he not done so, he would have been court-martialed and probably shot. The United States has communicated the evidence it has on hand to the ambassador. It may result in a voluntary change in the Arabic situation, but in any event the question of the submarine commander's intent and the responsibility of Germany for damages in this particular instance will be arbitrated."

It is understood that problems confronting Secretary Lansing at present and which the ambassador at least believes will be adjusted amicably within ten days or two weeks are as follows:

1. The exact manner in which Germany is to give assurances that she officially accepts the American demands that international law shall govern her future submarine operations.
2. Whether the United States shall receive a complete copy of the German instructions to submarine commanders with the date of their issuance and whether there also was notification of penalties for violations.
3. In this connection the United States takes the position that it cannot rely exclusively on the opinion of the German commander, but must be assured that the orders are of such a character that a commander cannot wantonly sink a merchant vessel and then plead justification and escape punishment.
4. Whether the two nations can agree on an arbitration plan that will not touch principles of national honor but will be available to settle questions where an honest difference of opinion exists. The American position at present is that generally it is pledged to arbitration but not in principles insisted on by the president is possible.
5. Whether Berlin will be willing to give such assurances concerning the Arabic that this government can take up the Lusitania and other issues.

While Germany has denied liability for the lives of Americans traveling on belligerent vessels, she has agreed to arbitrate this question, and several high administration officials are urging the president to accept this view. They claim that not only are these issues arbitrable but that a decision by a neutral tribunal would lay down for all time a new principle of international law on this question which generally is in dispute.

RUSSIANS ESTIMATE TEUTONIC LOSSES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Petrograd, Sept. 14.—Austro-German losses in the fighting of the last two months were officially estimated at 445,000 men here today. Prisoners taken by the Russians state that entire regiments were destroyed in the attacks upon positions of the Czar's troops.

More than 70,000 prisoners are in the hands of the Russians as a result of operations of the last three weeks. From these it has been learned that the Germans are finding it difficult to shift troops as readily as they did at the opening of the campaign in Poland.

Though the war office admits that the Germans have cut the railway between Dvinsk and Vlna, the Petrograd military experts assert that present conditions augur well for the success of the Russians.

"The Germans rush has weakened greatly," says the Bourse Gazette's experts. "The enemy is losing his strength. We are gaining in power."

"The heavy rains that are now falling will prove an enormous handicap for the enemy. The Russian troops, on their retreat through the swamps, destroyed all roads. Before the Germans can get through they must rebuild these. Then they will find our troops waiting for them at the edges. They will be unable to use the artillery which has played so great a part in their victories. It will be cold steel that wins then. In the use of this none is superior to the Russian soldiers."

The outstanding feature of the present campaign, according to all the experts, is the fact that at no time have the Germans been able to administer a decisive defeat to the Russians. The abandonment of the Vistula, Niemen and Bug river fortresses kept the great mass of Russian troops free for the field conflicts.

CONSPIRATORS TO BE PROSECUTED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 14.—All of the evidence committed by department of justice and secret service investigators dealing with violations of the neutrality in the Austro-German anti-munition campaign will be presented to the federal grand jury. Because of a desire to prevent those who are involved leaving the jurisdiction of the courts, it is expected that there will be little publicity until indictments can be returned and arrests made.

Chief interest naturally will be in the case of James F. J. Archibald, the American correspondent who acted as a dispatch bearer for Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador. The administration has determined that he is to be "prosecuted to the limit" and he will be detained on arrival in New York, taken before a federal commission on a short affidavit and held in bail to await the action of the New York grand jury.

It was admitted at the department of justice that a conviction was expected in this case. While officials would not talk, it is understood that the detectives who furnished the information to the British government which resulted in Archibald being searched and the dispatches located, are ready to tell of conversations between Archibald and Dr. Dumba and others, in which the contents of the messages were discussed freely and the question of how they were to be hidden while in a British harbor tackled.

It was rumored here that persons who have been prominent in the pro-Austrian and pro-German propaganda also may be haled into court. Evidence which tends to indicate a violation of the federal laws now is being gone over. If it is considered satisfactory, it will be presented to federal grand juries. If not, then it likely will be turned over to local authorities and prosecutions attempted under state laws.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Utica, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Reports reaching here today from various sections of Herkimer county reveal extensive damage done by a cloudburst late last night. WE are strong for PEACE. Yet we are quietly but constantly waging a war—a conflict without possibility of amnesty or compromise. We are directing our guns against inferiority in our field—against gluttony in eating as well as drinking—against impurity in the manufacture of beer—and, last, but not least, against all excise legislation that is tyrannous, unfair and oppressive in character. ## WHITE RUSSIA.

Where the Invader First Made his Power Felt.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—A sketch of White Russia, the first part of old Russian soil to feel the power of the invader, is given in a statement issued today by the National Geographic Society.

"White Russia" comprises four governments, Vitebsk, Smolensk, Moghilev and Minsk. It is said that the name is derived from the predominance of the color of the peasant's dress. This division of Russia is bounded by the Pripiet river basin to the south and by the Dvina, or southern Dvina, on the north. It supports a population of about 7,500,000, two-thirds of which is White Russian and the rest Lithuanian, Jewish and Polish. Here, likely, is to be found the purest Slav type, almost unblended. This region, blanketed by swamps and marshes, and smothered in forest, is one of the poorest, most backward regions in European Russia.

"Fins dwell here before history began for Europe. They were expelled by Lithuanians, who, in turn, were before migrating Slavonic tribes. The country finally passed back to the Lithuanians; then to Poland, and was won piecemeal by Great Russia. Polish oppression and religious persecution worked a wholesale decimation here, and thousands of the peasants fled into Russia while those who remained, incurred for Russia's coming. The rest of the region was not annexed by the Great Russians until the end of the 15th century. Starvation has kept this land again and again with a terrible effects as those experienced by India in the grip of famine.

The White Russian is not of so sturdy a build as the Great Russian, nor so comely as the Little Russian. He is less assured than his northern neighbor, and more heavy than his southern neighbor. His hair is light and his eyes are light, and his face is generally drawn. The garment peculiar to him is his white overcoat, which he wears on all special occasions, as proudly in winter as in the summer. His villages are small, isolated and badly kept. His homes are primitive. His fight for existence is a bitter one, and from his ranks are recruited the workmen for the hardest, least-paying tasks in the empire."

Magnetic Attraction.

Magnetic attraction is now being applied more or less experimentally, to the detection of mines laid at sea. An electro-magnet, supported on a long pole extending forward from a ship's bow, can be made to signal the presence of a mine. Could the current be made strong enough to deflect a torpedo, another terror of the deep would be completely disappear.

For the Children

Miss Katherine Brown,

One of the features at a recent water carnival held at College Point, N. Y., was the swimming feats of Miss Katherine Brown, the five-year-old daughter of Commodore Al Brown, the champion long distance swimmer of the world. The little girl not alone swam a hundred yards in fast time, but performed some remarkable diving stunts from a thirty-five foot stand especially erected for the occasion. Miss Brown has been swimming since she was three years old and is considered a water marvel for her age. She does not alone use the breast stroke while swimming, but can use the crawl and the trudgen as well. The illustration shows Miss Brown on the diving board showing some of her little friends how to begin the breast stroke. No need to say the listeners are paying strict attention to her advice.

A Potato Race.

Children of all ages (except the baby) enjoy greatly a potato race. Two rows of potatoes are laid along the ground for a distance of a hundred feet or so, about five feet apart. A basket or pail is placed at the end of the row from which the contestants start. Two persons begin together, each having a spoon, and they must pick up the potatoes, one at a time, on the spoon without touching it with the hand, and carry it safely and drop it in the basket. One may select the potatoes in any order one pleases, but must make a separate trip for each potato. Sometimes they fling the potatoes from a distance, but if it falls short it must be picked up and placed in the basket. Whoever gets his potatoes in first is the winner of these two; then two others enter the contest. After all the company have had their turn the winners are pitted against each other until there is only one remaining, who is pronounced the champion.

Hidden Pet Puzzle.

By taking the initial letter of a one syllable word from each of the following sentences and writing them together correctly the name of a certain kind of four footed pet will be spelled: Aim at the sun and you'll reach the moon.

Few gems are as rare as the pearl. Art is a long and tedious study. A gentle nag is the children's friend. When given an inch do not take a mile.

Sweet is the bread one can earn for himself. Always look well before leaping. Answer.—Spaniel.

Riddle.

I may be made of brass, paper or wood. I may live for a century or be easily defaced and lost. I am given as a token of love, and yet the right of me may cause sorrow. Sometimes I hold a stream, a tree, a bird and a bush; sometimes I hold only a face. I may look like you or like your friend. I may be black or white and so small I may be seen in your eye.

Fern Dust.

We slipped through the forest. One bright midsummer night. And there we found a clearing. Aglow with fairy light. We spied a little elf man. With a tiny, shiny pail. And he was singing: "Fern dust, Fern dust for sale!"

He sold us each a pailful. To sprinkle in our shoe. We paid him for it, gladly. With a bunch of meadow rue. And then we heard a rustling. A whispering in the breeze. And the laughter of the fairies. Who danced beneath the trees.

We pitter patterd homeward. And my, but we felt queer! For not a soul could see us. And not a soul could hear. As, fairy-like, we tripped it. And scarcely touched the ground. The magic fern dust hid us. And stifled the smallest sound.

But when we woke next morning. The fern dust all had gone! Had vanished with the fairies. In the misty light of dawn. But we shall find that elf man. With his tiny, shiny pail. For we'll hear him singing: "Fern dust, Fern dust for sale!"

—St. Nicholas.

Knew the Meaning of It.

"Pa, what does it mean when a public man is said to be at the zenith of his popularity?" "It means, my son," replied the defeated candidate, ruefully, "that he is about ready to hit the toboggan."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

Between now and election day we expect to publish in full several times the full text of the proposed Constitution upon which the people are to vote. This will be done in pursuance of law, and is necessary, but we are aware that not many persons will read the document in its entirety. It must be confessed that there is very little popular interest in the subject—a fact which was shown by the small vote cast on the question whether a convention should be held. Nevertheless, there is nothing more important now before our people. Complaints later on will come with poor grace from citizens who are too lazy to give the matter any thought. For the public convenience, a committee representing the Constitutional Convention has summarized the most important features of its work as follows:

1. The reorganization of the State Government on its administrative side into seventeen civil departments, a reduction in the number of elected officers, and provisions for the appointment of all other officers.

2. Provisions affecting the Legislature, designed to remove from it the consideration of local matters and private claims, and to restore it to its true function of enacting laws of general application and of making necessary appropriations for the conduct of the State Government.

3. A careful regulation of and change in the method of making appropriations for the expenses of the State by means of an annual executive budget.

4. Improvements in the method of contracting indebtedness for the purposes of the State, and the substitution of serial for sinking fund bonds.

5. The grant to cities of as large a control of their own municipal government and affairs as is consistent with State sovereignty.

6. Authority in the Legislature, with the approval of the electors of each county, to provide for any county optional forms of government, and prohibiting the passage of local or special laws relating to a county, except at the instance of its local authorities.

7. Reform in civil procedure in the courts of the State, and provisions affecting the organization and jurisdiction of the courts.

8. State control over the assessment of taxes on personal and intangible property.

9. The protection of the natural resources of the State under a Conservation Commission.

10. Provisions for the benefit of wage earners by creating a Department of Labor and Industry, by extending the benefits of the Workmen's Compensation act to embrace occupational diseases, and by empowering the Legislature to regulate or prohibit manufacturing in tenement houses.

Every voter should read the foregoing several times, and then as much of the text of the document as he feels disposed to read. From time to time during the next few weeks we intend to comment upon various features. There are shortcomings, but these could not be avoided, and we are satisfied that as a whole the proposed Constitution is better than the existing one and should be adopted.

A generation ago shad were transported from New England rivers to the Pacific coast rivers and appear to have thrived fairly well, since the New Englanders, alarmed by the steady decrease of the annual shad catch, are now arranging to secure from California descendants of the stock they formerly sent there. It would be as well for the State of New York to make the subject of an experiment before repeating it. Curious things happen sometimes when animals are transplanted. The English sparrow, so much liked in his original home, is a nuisance here. Our fishermen wish nobody had ever thought of putting California and German brown trout in our waters. We could cite a half column of unpleasant results of transplantation. Now, the shad which went to the Pacific rivers may have adhered to their traditions, and again they may not have done so. It is within the possibilities that they have acquired new ideas regarding diet and other habits which give their flesh a different taste, and they might also corrupt their cousins who have never traveled. It is better to have a few shad of the kind we are used to than boatloads of imitations.

Just wait until the new Federal Trade Commission gets under way. A representative of the National Chamber of Commerce who was in town the other day truthfully said that it was vested with the power of life and death over every business in the country. Nobody knows what its inspectors will do, but they will undoubtedly be the same as other Government spies and martinetts, and we get a light on the disposition of that class by reading a San Francisco despatch relating how some inspectors swooped down on the customs house there and made the employees take down all the mottoes they had posted up, reading "Sell your hammer and buy a horn," "Get busy," "Smile and push," "If you want to know who's boss start something," and the like. "You chaps may be jokers or sentimental," said the emissary, "but the Government isn't." All this is in itself a small thing, but it is one of the signs along the road warning us that we are approaching Government interference with little things as well as big ones, so that all our little habits and whims will be passed upon in Washington. Later on, the tide will turn.

WAGES FOR WIVES

(By Our Woman Editor)

The sunny state of Kansas has in its midst a determined woman, a wife, who has just waked up to the rights she has missed during all the years of wedded work and wedded bliss. At least, she has just made her awakening public, having gone on record with a claim for fifty-six per cent of the net profits of a particular business that began twenty-eight years ago when she gave her hand and her all into the keeping of a man who made the usual promise of endowing her with all his worldly goods.

She contributed the snug little sum of $1,000 at the very beginning, and now, after the long years of work and prosperity, she is ready to quit.

You see, it is this way, as she tells the story.

She—Mrs. Bertha Dunlap—has passed her fifty-sixth milestone of years, and, though, by their united labor, they have accumulated $90,000, her labors run along pretty much as of old, while the funds stand in his name. Her share in the work now, at a time when she is looking for a period of rest, is the milking of thirteen cows, with no modern separator to help, feeding the calves and hogs, cooking for the farm hands, doing other tasks about the house, and in-between, working on the farm.

She has mothered eight children, has done the work of a man all through the years and thinks, now that the firm is about to be dissolved, she is entitled to $50,000 as her share in the property.

And will she get it? It very much depends.

It depends upon whether the courts and the husband think that a farmer's wife or any other wife is worthy of her hire or whether they think her work should all be regarded as a labor of love, with mere money much too commonplace and practical ever to come between a husband and his wife.

And everybody knows that in the average matrimonial partnership, where funds pour in none too predictably and where both must plan and work very faithfully to make the dollars cover all, the savings are not over-abundant and wages for wives seldom have a chance to enter the story.

But the point is here—

In the very expression "wages for wives" and in the fact itself, is something that rings not exactly true and comradely-like—partnership-like, if you please; but it happens sometimes that marriage is not a real partnership, or a comradeship either, rather a one-sided affair so far as money and property are concerned. And it does seem all wrong that a husband should count it his right, as he does now and then, to put every bit of property accumulated by joint labors, in his name alone, his to do with as he likes during his lifetime, his to pass along exactly as he sees fit when he comes to the end of his road. As the years go on and the accumulations grow greater, he may be quite royal and fair in his conception of what and how the expenditures may be; or he may be niggardly and mean to the last degree, begrudging every dollar not spent in hard, practical ways.

Apparently that farmer out west who has worked and saved and whose wife has worked and saved with him has not wided as his acres have spread and sees no reason why, as their sun grows a little low in the horizon, they should take life a bit easier and enjoy the fruits of their labors. And he seems to see no reason why his wife should be entitled to any of the dollars saved.

Is it to wonder that with a background of $90,000, comfortably deposited in his name, she has rebelled against milking the cows, feeding the pigs and the rest any longer? At least, without anything to show for her labors. Not that there are not many contented wives who give no thought at all to the dollars that are set aside in whatever name they so. All's well, and they know it. But not all's well in some peevish, money-loving, self-loving quarters.

And it is a mighty hardship to go on working, year after year, presuming an equal partner, yet never being counted when returns come in.

This question of wages for wives is discussed more or less, urged along by incidents betraying manifest injustice; but as for herself, one sees no ready solution, of the difficulty except by way of gradually changing the attitude and taking it for granted that wives have a right to share in all earnings.

That sounds rather indefinite, one admits, and leaves a great many loop-holes wide open; but one recalls how markedly the public attitude, or the family attitude has been changed regarding sons and daughters. Time was—let me recite a little happening, told by a white-haired woman today, a happening more or less common long ago. A father had quite a nice bit of property to dispose of at his death, and with three sons and one daughter, he left every bit of it to the sons, with the careful provision that they make a home for the girl until she was sixteen years old! And that daughter today, looking back over the ground and realizing what a terrible thing it was to do, practically to turn her adrift at that irresponsible age, says that her "daddy," as she calls him even now, did not mean to be hard or unjust. He was just living up to the times, assuming that she would marry or be cared for somehow.

And times may change in the bright future so that, after many years of united labor, a wife may not find it necessary to resort to the law for her share.

SOCIAL SERVICE BUREAU OFFICERS

The board of directors of the Social Service Bureau met on Monday evening in the supreme court chambers at the court house and organized by electing officers as follows: President, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck; first vice president, John D. Schoonmaker; second vice president, Mrs. Scott Gillespie of the Sunshine Society; secretary, William F. Rafferty; treasurer, Mrs. Laura MacMillan. The only paid office of the new organization will be that of secretary and Mrs. MacMillan will be paid a salary of $900 a year, the same amount she was first paid by the Woman's Federation. She is eminently fitted for carrying out the plans of the new bureau.

The constitution and by-laws of the new bureau have already been published in The Freeman. Mayor Candel expects to arrange things so that the bureau will have free office rent and funds for carrying on the work of the bureau will be secured by soliciting memberships. It is planned to secure a regular membership at $1 a year and sustaining members at $5 a year. Contributions for the work will also be received.

WEST PARK.

West Park, Sept. 14.—People hereabouts are rejoicing because there is a very good highway from Esopus to Newburgh with the exception of a bit of bad going through the Gordon ravine and across the railroad track at Gill's crossing, as also for a little way near Black creek. Here it is expected that the handsome bridge being built by Col. O. H. Payne will be completed this month and this link in the state road finished. It is thought soon that the road will be made good as far as the branch road leading to Union Center, thus making the new detour over through Edenville into Kingston.

Sunday, September 26, will see the visitation of Ascension Church by the Right Reverend Charles S. Burek, D. D. The confirmation service will be held at 11 a. m., and offering will be for church extension in this diocese.

Miss Katherine C. Walker of Grace Hill started for Liberty Manor on Saturday, to be absent a few weeks.

Miss Bridget Davis and Miss Mary Zimmerman enjoyed their auto ride to New York on Saturday and their return by the afternoon boat. As the boat was delayed the trip from Highland Falls was by train to Highland and by carriage to West Park.

The dancing class at the school house on Saturday night was a success and from the interest taken the class of 14 will probably soon be increased.

William Towill, son of Thomas Towill, expects to enter the new choir school at Rhinebeck on Thursday.

Mrs. Eliza J. Burroughs is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Watson, at Corona, L. I.

Tuesday last with over 70 pupils, in charge of Miss Thorne and Miss Covert.

Perry Green expects to enter the agricultural department of Alfred University early in October.

Mrs. John Burroughs has returned to her home, "Riverby," from a summer spent at Woodchuck Lodge, near Roxbury.

September 14, 1895.—Highwaymen held up a number of people near Lake Mohawk and reward of $100 was offered for their capture by A. K. Smiley.

September 14, 1905.—Kerstone Hose of Reading, Pa., arrived in town as guests of Weiner Hose.

Jacob L. Snyder and Mrs. Lounsbury Davis married at High Falls.

ALBANY DOCTOR Makes Wonderful Cures

Dr. Swinburne of Albany will be in Kingston Friday, Sept. 17th, at 340 Broadway.

A Remarkable Cure of Castleton Woman

Mrs. John Vanderwall, of Castleton, N. Y., was an invalid for over two years. Doctors said she had Bright's disease, diabetes and heart trouble. There seemed no hope for her case and she was confined to the bed for over a year. On the 12th of March, 1912, Dr. Swinburne, of Albany, was called to see her and by a careful examination found that the other doctors were mistaken in their diagnosis. Dr. Swinburne assured her she could get well. Today she is enjoying good health and able to look after her house work and social duties.

Amsterdam Fireman Cured of Rheumatism.

Mr. Henry Cole, of Steamer 2, Fire Company of Amsterdam, was crippled from Rheumatism that he had to give up work and could only get around with the aid of crutches. After treating a long time with various remedies he decided to try Dr. Swinburne. He became much discouraged and thought there was no hope for him. His attention having been called to the wonderful work Dr. Swinburne was doing, he decided to make one more effort to obtain relief. To Mr. Cole's great astonishment he found after taking Dr. Swinburne's treatment one month he had no further use for his crutches and after three months' treatment he was entirely cured. He is now at work and enjoys perfect health.

Severe Stomach Trouble Cured.

Mr. John Steiner, a Schenectady fireman, suffered terribly from stomach disorders until his local doctors declared he had ulcer of the stomach, and there could be no help except by an operation. Hearing of Dr. Swinburne, he decided to consult the doctor, and after four months' treatment he has been completely cured, and can now eat any ordinary food without any distress whatever.

Another Remarkable Case in Schenectady.

Miss H. Robertson, of 24 Thompson St., had severe stomach trouble, also diagnosed as ulcer of the stomach by her local doctors, and an operation was advised, but after two months' treatment with Dr. Swinburne she is able to eat all ordinary food without distress, is now feeling fine, and has gained 13 pounds in weight.

Albany Woman Cured of Diabetes.

A remarkable cure in Albany is the case of Mrs. George H. Rogers, of 535 Lancaster Street, Pine Hill. Mrs. Rogers had been suffering for some time with the disease known as diabetes mellitus, and her physician could not give her any relief or offer any hope of a cure, for as he stated the urine was very bad and her weight was falling. She was very nervous and loaded with sugar and of high specific gravity. Knowing of the wonderful results of Dr. Swinburne's treatment in other similar cases, Mrs. Rogers decided to consult him and now after six months, Mrs. Rogers is pleased that she has obtained a complete cure of the trouble and is enjoying good health.

These wonderful results are produced by the improved methods of treatment, and the reason suffering from any trouble, where the family doctor does not produce relief, should consult Dr. Swinburne.

ARCHER WELL MARKED

Fastest and Most Deadly of Throwers to Bases.

Impossible for Great Catcher to Straighten Right Arm, Which is Shorter Than Left--Hand Battered by Many Foul Tips.

Jimmy Archer, the Cub catcher, is probably the most bungled-up ball player in the big leagues.

James Archer, humble employee of a cooperage shop, fell into a vat of boiling tar and seared his good right arm nearly to the bone. By that freak of fate came the uncanny art, the all but impossible skill which has made the great Cub backstop unrivaled in class. Archer is the fastest, the most deadly of throwers to the bases. He is the nonpareil of all catching wizards. His height is medium, his weight the same.

First of all, his throwing arm is permanently bent and stiffened at the elbow. It is impossible for the great catcher to straighten it, and it is fully an inch shorter than the left.

The forearm is deeply ridged and scarred from the effects of the burns sustained in the accident at the cooperage works. The hand itself has been fearfully battered by foul tips, wild shoots and the various fatalities that lurk for the unwary catcher.

The thumb has been dislocated and the joint is swelled to double its natural size. The index finger has been broken no less than four times and every joint is gnarled and bent.

The bones of the second finger have been shattered on three occasions, the third once. The little finger has been dislocated several times and its joints are as rusty as a rusty hinge.

Lastly, the elbow suffered a compound fracture when he ran into a concrete wall in Brooklyn. It would be hard to picture an arm apparently so little adapted to throwing the ball swiftly or accurately.

And yet this misshapen, battered arm is the most deadly, the most dreaded whip on the National League circuit.

Comiskey Sets High Marks.
Eddie Collins for $50,000, Jackson for $30,000 in money and players, Chappelle for $18,500, Schalk for $12,500, Felsch for $12,000 and Blackburn for $11,500--these are the high marks set by Comiskey in recent years in buying ball players. They stand as the record of all magnates.

Fred Clarke Quits Coaching.
Fred Clarke of the Pirates does not go to the coaching line any more, and has been criticized for it. His reply is that he is of more service to his team on the bench, where he can advise the young players, and he should know.

RUN-AND-HIT PLAY

Not always is the baseball conversation of the first-day lady fan as replete with nonsense as the struggling cartoonist pictures it.

At a major league game the other day one of the fair attendants shot this at her escort, following a play in which the runner, starting with the pitch, had raced from first to third on a short single to the outfield:

"Why do they call that the hit-and-run play?" she asked when her partner had quieted himself after the usual exertions in appreciation of a sensational play, during which exertions he shouted, "Some hit-and-run, kid--great!"

"Why, err, 'cause it's a hit and then run play," was his unthinking reply.

"But it's not," she argued. "He ran first and then the other man hit it. I would understand it better if you called it the run-and-hit play."

How about it?

COUTANT ON TRAIL OF MOONHAW BEAR

The presence of a large black bear in the vicinity of Moonhaw, in the Catskills, has raised the hopes of club members that another trophy will be added to the club's collection, and Former Assemblyman Charles T. Coutant has begun polishing up his armament in the hope that he will be able to shoot the bear.

Estimates of the bear's height, weight, length of foot and stride, etc., vary with the angle at which residents of the vicinity have viewed the animal; the size varies in inverse ratio to the distance, at the distance of half a mile he looks nearly as big as a Ford roadster. There was a suspicion at one time that it was a Ford which had been seen, but the bold frog on which the bear stood was so located as to preclude the possibility of even a Ford reaching that place.

With the construction of the Ashokan reservoir, there was a noticeable disappearance of bears from the town of Olive, Italian laborers who were suspected of having killed and eaten them were able to prove an alibi and were willing to plead guilty to nothing more grave than a desire to be among those present when the catfish law was being violated. Without seeking to discover where the bears may have gone, it is evident from all accounts that they have reappeared, and they are fat and fair to look upon. It is impossible to state whether during their temporary absence from the Catskills they have been dining a la carte or table d'hôte, but wherever they have spent the past few years, the living has been good.

Wittenberg, Cornell, Cedar, Round Road, High Point and all the other mountains in that vicinity, not only furnish comfortable winter retreats, but at this season of the year afford abundant opportunities for delicacies, to which the Catskill mountain bears for many generations have been accustomed.

The biggest bear in two decades to be seen in the Catskills was the one which Mr. Coutant saw a number of years ago and which led to the discovery of the Moonhaw Hollow. A prospective real estate client from Wittenberg had commissioned Mr. Coutant to find him a suitable location for a bungalow, and in his customary anxiety to find the most slightly elevated location, Mr. Coutant had climbed Wittenberg Mountain from the Woodland Valley. He had all the armament of an auxiliary cruiser with him, for in those days catamounts, wolves, snakes, cougars, mosquitoes and other pestiferous live things abounded in that section of the Catskills.

On top of Wittenberg Mr. Coutant met the biggest bear outside of captivity. The bear saw the fire fly from Mr. Coutant's eye, if not from his gun. Then, keeping three jumps ahead and yelping for mercy, the bear led Mr. Coutant a long chase over the ridge that connects Wittenberg with Cornell and down the side of Cornell to the present site of Moonhaw, Incorporated, where Mr. Coutant obtained so entangled with the beautiful scenery that out of gratitude he let the bear escape down the valley. The bear now in that vicinity is not the same which luridly explored the valley nearly twenty years ago, for that bear has been killed in newspaper stories at least a dozen times since then.

A messenger boy who had been reading stories of western adventure stopped Mr. Coutant on the street to inquire whether in case the bear was killed he could have one of the claws, but it developed that the hunter has other uses for the skin, claws and all.

"And when you aim for him, Mr. Coutant," said the boy breathlessly, "will you hit the bullseye?"

Contemplating reflectively an instant upon the days when he had shot both cows and bulls by mistake, Mr. Coutant replied:

"No, no, it will be the bear's eye this time."

Mr. Coutant and Judge Jenkins intend to go hunting for the bear soon.

White or colored linen would be ideal for this style, which is also nice for gingham, lawn, corduroy, ratine, crash, chambray, poplin, voile, taffeta or serge. The waist is fitted with a yoke, cut square over the back, where it joins a plaited section. The collar is new and stylish. The sleeve in either length is good, and shows attractive cuff styles. The skirt is a gored model, with plaited back panel. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 ards at its lower edge.

A PEEP INTO SPACE

Can the Finite Mind of Man Measure the Universe?

THE LIMITS OF THE VISIBLE.

Science Says the Bounds of the Stellar System Are Definable and That the Universe is an Island of Stars in an Infinite Ocean of Ether.

To the visible universe there are ascertainable limits. It may be that the greatest telescopes have not yet reached the bottom, or the boundaries, of the entire system, but they have almost done so.

This is shown by the thinning out of the fainter stars. These stars, as a whole, are the most distant, and if they were unlimited numerically every increase in the penetrating power of telescopes would bring previously unseen ones into view, in proportionately diminished numbers.

As a fact, however, there is a rapid falling off in the proportionate numbers at great distances. This is shown by Kapteyn's "law of star density." Taking the "parsec" as the unit of measurement (a parsec is equal to sixteen million million miles), the density of the stars at increasing distances comes out as follows: At 0 distance, 1.00; at 50 parsecs, 0.89; at 135 parsecs, 0.86; at 213 parsecs, 0.67; at 560 parsecs, 0.50; at 850 parsecs, 0.15.

This does not mean that the absolute number of stars decreases with increase of distance, but that the ratio of their number to the volume of space occupied decreases in the proportion shown, so that at a distance of 850 parsecs there are only 15 per cent as many stars as there should be if there had been no falling off in relative density. Various counts and estimates of the actual numbers included within various limiting distances have been made, and these show that the total number of stars in the visible universe is numerable and probably does not exceed a thousand millions at an outside estimate.

The fact that a fairly definite shape or outline has been found for the visible universe is in itself a proof that it is not unlimited in extent. We are virtually certain that it expands around us in such a manner as to assume roughly the form of a flat, irregular disk, the more distant parts or edges of which lie in the plane of the Milky way. It is thus like a floating island of stars in the ocean of space.

Space itself may be infinite, although what we call the universe is not. As to other universes existing beyond the limits of ours and invisible to us, that is purely a speculation, which appears more or less probable according to the manner in which one's mind approaches it.

But at any rate, there is no positive evidence of the existence of such outer star systems. From time to time one hears suggestions that this or that nebula is an "outside universe," dimly shining to us from its millions of crowded stars across immeasurable depths of intervening space. But it is not probable that no nebula or other object visible in the night sky is unconnected with the nature to which our sun and our earth belong.

As to the continuance of the Creator's work in forming new stars and new planets, of that there can be no question. This work is, in truth, visibly going on before us in the heavens. There is the utmost variety of ages among the stars, just as there is among the human beings in a crowd. If our lives were lengthened so that a year would be but as a second to us we should see the stars around us disappearing and new ones springing into existence, as we see flowers fading and fresh ones blooming in the garden.

To return for a moment to the question of the infinitude of space, it is well known that the human mind cannot conceive a limit to space, for the instant you attempt to fix or imagine such a limit your imagination flies beyond it. You have got to think of an outside as well as of an inside.

And if you try to another imagined boundary instantly another outside, expands stretches away before you! It is, then, perfectly legitimate to suppose that, while the visible universe is limited, the invisible universe has no bounds. In comparison with that, all that we see, or can ever see, is truly, infinitely less than as a grain of sand to a desert or a drop of water in an ocean.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York Journal.

AMERICAN BANKERS MEET FOREIGN FINANCIERS IN MORGAN LIBRARY.

Here are the four British members of the Allies' banking commission, now in this country to raise a huge war loan for the Allies, descending the steps of the private library of J. P. Morgan, after a conference with some of the most noted financiers of this country.

On the upper steps are Sir H. Babbington Smith and Basil B. Blackett and below are Sir Edward Hopkinson Holden and Lord Reading, chief justice of England.

Knew His Duties.

A soldier on guard in South Carolina during the war was questioned as to his knowledge of his duties. "You know your duty here, do you, sentinel?" "Yes, sir." "Well, now, suppose they should open on you with shells and musketry, what would you do?" "Form a line, sir." "What? One man form a line?" "Yes, sir; form a bee line for camp, sir."

Cathedral Long in Building.

St. Peter's cathedral in Rome took so long to build that 43 popes reigned during the course of its construction.

His Defective Memory.

An absent-minded piano tuner registered at a Chicago hotel, forgot the names of both hotel and street, and had to put an "ad" in the paper, asking where a man by his name had registered. "This is better than the bearded quip on the artist who put his umbrella to bed and stood all night in the corner."

Does Away With Misdeeds.

A Frenchman has invented a machine for dealing cards that is said to make misdeeds impossible.

CARE OF GOOD CLOTHES.

The Finer the Stuff the More Watchful One Should Be.

It is a very common mistake to believe that good materials, whether of cotton, silk or wool, need less care than cheap ones. How often does one complain of the lack of wearing quality in a garment for which a big price has been paid. Yet, most frequently, what has worn out the fabric has not been actual use, but the neglect it has suffered.

One of the principal differences between good and cheap materials is that the better grades are finer spun. This may mean that the fabric is stronger and, in proportion to the uses to which it is put, may wear longer, but it also means that each tiny thread by itself is weaker and more apt to injury. Anything which may attack the threads one by one, therefore, does more harm with fine goods than with coarse.

No matter how careful one may try to be, clothes that one wears gradually get a trifle of the grease from the perspiration of the body. In spite of constant washing clothes will become dusty. This combination of dust and body moisture forms a regular breeding ground for tiny little vegetable growths. These are so small that it takes the most powerful microscope even to see them.

In themselves these bacteria do but little harm, but many of them set free an acid which eats into the fiber of the material. If the individual fiber is coarse the deposit of the acid upon it is not enough to eat all the way through, but if it is sheer or woven of fine threads one by one the threads are eaten through and the texture weakened.

Good clothing, instead of being kept shut away in boxes and drawers, should be constantly aired and shaken. The finer the material the more often should it be looked after. A coarse piece of goods will wear out by using, a fine piece by being laid away.—New York American.

MILITARY STRATEGY.

Retreating Through a City is Disastrous to an Army.

If you suffer defeat in front of a great town and have to retreat through it under the blows of the victorious enemy you are in the worst possible position for conducting that retreat. The streets of the town (but few of which will run parallel to your course and can, therefore, serve as avenues of escape for your army) are so many defiles in which your columns will get hopelessly congested. The operation may be compared to the pouring of too much liquid into a funnel which has too small an orifice. Masses of your transport will remain clogged outside the place. You will run the risk of a partial and perhaps of a complete disaster as the enemy presses on.

There is very much more than this. A great town cannot but contain, if you have long occupied it, the material of your organization. You will probably abandon documents which the enemy should not see. You will certainly, in the pressure of such a flight, lose accumulated stores. Again, the transverse streets are so many points of "leakage" into which your congested columns will bulge out and get confused. Again, you will be almost necessarily dealing with the complications of a mass of civilian conditions which should never be allowed to interrupt a military operation.

In general, to fight in front of a great town when the chances are against you is as great an error as to fight in front of a marsh with few causeways. So far as mere topography is concerned, it is a greater error still.—From "The Elements of the Great War," by Hilaire Belloc.

Seville Nights.

In all the principal places and gardens of Seville moving picture screens are erected and small tables and chairs set out, the exhibitors either making their profits from the drinks sold or by rental of chairs at 2 cents each. Thousands of people go nightly to the different plazas and gardens, and the entire life of the city for about four months centers around these moving picture shows.—Commerce Reports.

AQUEDUCT TAX CASE DECIDED

Judge Hasbrouck has just handed down a decision in the actions brought by the city of New York against the assessors of the towns of Shawangunk and Gardiner to strike from the assessment rolls of the towns the taxes assessed against the land of New York city used for aqueduct purposes in 1910, 1911 and 1913, and has granted motion made by the city, but suggests a remedy to the town assessors. William McMurtrie Speer represented the city of New York in the proceedings and A. H. Van Buren appeared for the assessors of the towns.

Judge Hasbrouck's opinion is as follows: In the several above entitled proceedings the city of New York has made separate motions to strike from the assessment roll the taxes assessed against the land of New York city used for aqueduct purposes and to have such other and further relief as may be just and proper.

The motion is based upon the papers on file in the county clerk's office in each of said proceedings and upon an affidavit of William McMurtrie Speer verified September 9, 1915, which affidavit was supplied after the motion and upon the suggestion of the court. Among other things in his affidavit Mr. Speer states:

"Deponent heard Mr. Van Buren state to the court that the same question of the illegality of the assessments was involved in all the proceedings; that the question was before the Court of Appeals and that the decision of the Court of Appeals thereon would decide them all."

Mr. Van Buren, attorney for the assessors, in the affidavit which he files states:

"Neither deponent or any other person acting for the assessors ever stated in open court or elsewhere that the above entitled matters were to be determined by the decision of the Court of Appeals in the 1912 proceedings. All that was ever stated was that the decision of the Court of Appeals in the 1912 matter was to determine the question whether or not the aqueduct structure erected by the city on its land was subject to assessments and taxation."

I have examined the opinion of the Appellate Division in the matter of the city of New York vs. Deyo, 158 A. D. 319. It quotes Section 480 of the Greater New York Charter providing that:

"Lands theretofore taken or to be taken for constructions necessary for furnishing water supply to the city shall be assessed and taxed in the counties in which they are or may be located, in the manner prescribed by law, exclusive of the aqueducts," and holds that language does not sustain the assessment under review.

I have examined the language used by the assessors in assessing the lands upon which the aqueduct was constructed in all of the cases above entitled. None of them were made in accordance with the terms of Section 480 supra; that is to say, the language did not exclude the structure of the aqueduct. The aqueduct structure being appurtenant to the realty and the land upon which it was built having been appropriated for such use and the aqueduct being intended to be a permanent accession to the freehold became, in law real estate.

Matter of City of New York, 137 A. D. 630.

In all the assessments under review in the several proceedings above entitled therefore there lurks an unsurmountable error. It was determined in the 1912 proceedings which went to the Court of Appeals (See 213 N. Y. 80) that the aqueduct as a structure could not be assessed. That being so the claim of the stipulation set forth by the city is supported by affidavit, the stays obtained by the several respondents and by the further fact that all of said assessments are by virtue of the terms used in making the assessments void. Whatever the language used in open court with regard to the effect of the result of the proceeding of 1912 may have been, I am persuaded that the purpose of it—indeed that there could be no other purpose if it was determined to be improper to assess the aqueduct structure—was to have all of the other proceedings follow and be disposed of according to the determination of the proceeding of 1912. This conclusion does not leave the assessors remediless but will require a reassessment of the lands. The language in which the assessment is made should contain a statement that it was made exclusive of the structure of the aqueduct.

The motion of the relator the city of New York is granted, the writs sustained and the several assessments ordered to be stricken from the roll.

Motion costs of $10 and no other costs allowed in each proceeding.

Value of Acquaintance.

A gentleman who was spending a month in the Highlands went to hire a carriage for the purpose of taking his family for a drive. He looked at a vehicle and inquired how many it would hold. The ostler scratched his head thoughtfully and replied: "It holds four generally, but six if they're well acquainted!"

Heels First Worn by Persians.

Heels were first worn on shoes in Persia, because the sands were always so hot as to burn the feet, and the heels raising the shoes from the ground were some protection. A long time after their introduction, heels became a distinctive part of the shoe or slipper.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

New York, Sept. 14.—James A. Gilmore, president of the Federal League, discharged a few broadsides in the direction of organized baseball today, in answering O. B.'s "panning" of the Feds action in releasing players.

"Those fellows ought to observe the rulings of that motto about people who live in crystal huts shouldn't heave bricks," said Gilmore. "If the Federal League treated its players even one-tenth as unjustly as organized baseball has treated ball players we'd hide ourselves because of shame over our actions."

"We've never blacklisted a player, as organized baseball has done. We've never refused a player a job simply because he played in some other organization and we've never failed to pay a player every dollar that he's worth—and sometimes more. If a player in our league—a youngster just breaking in—shows that he is a real player we don't wait until he threatens to jump before we advance his salary. We give it to him voluntarily. We pay for value received—and we pay well. That's more than organized baseball is doing."

"Before our advent, it was the practice of organized baseball to pay the players just as little as possible. The player had to accept what was offered to him or be barred from baseball. The magnates in those days told the players that they were paying them all they were worth. Yet when we got into the baseball business they doubled and tripled the salary of those players, which shows that they originally had been paying the players only one-half or one-third of their real value."

"Since our inception it has been our rule to treat players fairly—and we have adhered to that rule and will continue to adhere to it. But we expect the players to deal fairly with us. We pay them to play ball—and we expect them to play ball. If they don't give us our best, if they insist upon dissipating there is only one end for them—release."

"Some of the players who came over to us from organized baseball figured that their future baseball career would be one long joy party. Their habits soon interfered with their ball playing skill. I sent warnings to those men, through the club presidents, that boozing would not be tolerated. The men, for the most part, ignored the first warning. Because I wanted to give them every possible chance, I sent a second warning. Some of the men observed that warning and quit dissipating. Others didn't—and they were released."

"There are in the Federal League right now about 25 ball players, secured from organized baseball who are of little use to us. But we are keeping them and will keep them until their contract expires, simply because they are doing the best they can. Their efforts may be feeble ones, and they aren't of any real help to their club, but they are trying to earn every dollar they get, and we show our appreciation of their efforts by letting them stay."

"To keep those men means a loss of nearly $100,000 a year to the magnates in the Federal League. But they are being kept because it's our policy to play fair with the men who play fair with us. Does anyone think that organized baseball would keep 25 men—or even one man—if that man was of no value to it?"

"And there's one thing more: we pay our men when their pay is due. We don't hold them off—nor do we pay them $10 or $25 on account on the regular pay days and promise to pay them the balance at some future date. As has been done frequently in organized baseball this year. If organized baseball challenges me to name specific instances where the pay of ball players was held up I'll gladly do so."

MENKE'S FORECAST OF NATIONAL LEAGUE

By Telegram to the Freeman.
New York, Sept. 14.—It's a pretty good bet that the Phillies will represent the National League in the play-off of the next world's series. With a lead of four games over the Dodgers and five games over the Braves and with the season ending in three weeks, it is not likely that Moran's men will be headed.

One week ago the Phillies were only one game ahead of the Dodgers. There were cries that the team was going to "crack." But the dope was "out." Since then Moran's men have won six straight games, increased their advantage and are playing stronger ball today than they did a month ago.

Stallings says the Braves will repeat; Robinson says the Dodgers will come through. But these two teams will have to do some tall playing if they want to land the bunting. Of the two the Braves have the outside chance. They have been through the grind, play as good abroad as home, while the Dodgers' weakness this year has been the poor playing of the team while on the road.

The only way the Dodgers and Braves can gain on the Phillies will be through the western teams. If the latter can down the Phillies the other eastern members of the league may have a chance. But it must not be forgotten that both contenders are playing the same teams that the Phillies must clash with.

And Moran still has an "ace in the hole." He has not worked his one best bet—Grover Alexander—to death. He has pitched him in turn. Should the race tighten up again Moran could shoot the "King" in every third game, and it's a safe bet that his star would win more games than he lost if Moran is forced to use him so often.

Should the race tighten up a little, before the teams again return east, then the series that the Phillies have to play with Boston and Brooklyn may have a bearing on the ultimate result.

Beginning today, the Phillies have 22 more games to play—19 abroad and three at home. The Braves' schedule calls for 22 more games—13 abroad and 9 at home; while the Dodgers have only 19 to play and all but one of them will be away from home. Wurts Street Baptist Church.
It was announced in this church last Sunday morning that the congregation would hold special evangelistic services beginning October 17.

Miss Margaret Bevan, the famous girl evangelist from Wales, will assist Dr. Fuller. This young woman, who is hardly 21 years old, has been greatly used of God in winning young people to the Christian life. She preaches and sings with surprising power and effect. The people throng to hear her, crowding the largest churches and are amazed at her consecrated gifts.

At the close of the morning service the church letter to be sent to the association held in Peekskill on October 6 was read and the following delegates appointed: Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Fuller, Deacons Samuel R. Every and James Tonque, Peter Boice, A. N. Barnes, Miss Ruth Sturgeson, Mrs. George Spielman, Mrs. Charles Card and Mrs. Delevorn DuRois.

In his letter the church reports a present membership of 457, twenty having been added by baptism and letter during the year and the contributions for all purposes have been a little over five thousand dollars.

Wednesday evening the officers and teachers of the Sunday school will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tongue to plan for increased efficiency in this department.

At the evening service Dr. Fuller preached what he called "A Country Sermon," based on the incident of Jesus's appearance to the disciples at the Sea of Galilee as recorded in John, 21st chapter.

A preacher was about to enter his pulpit one Sunday morning when a little girl stepped up to him and said: "Please, mister, are you going to preach a country sermon today?"

"A country sermon," said the preacher, "I did not know I ever preached country sermons." "Oh, yes, you do, and I like them," said the little girl. A country sermon is not necessarily one preached in the country or by a country preacher. The city preacher, like his Master, had been teaching spiritual lessons by the things in God's beautiful world. He had put some of the bloom and purity of nature in his discourses. Many of Jesus's sermons were preached on the mountains or by the sea. There are few incidents, said Dr. Fuller, in the life of Jesus more suggestive and spiritually suggestive than this beautiful story of resurrection story enacted there by the lake as told by John.

As we come back from the seaside and the mountains and take up afresh the work of the church let us hear the Master's saying to our hearts three things of which we need often a fresh reminder:

1. "I am not so far away as you sometimes think."

2. "I am near to help you—to change your failures into successes."

3. "I am near to convince you of my love that I may win your hearts."

"Lovest thou me more than these?" How can we serve God until we love Him with all the heart?

ST. REMY.
St. Remy, Sept. 13.—The leader of the Christian Endeavor on Sunday evening was Mrs. Edgar Ellsworth. Next Sunday evening Miss Sarah Van Aken will lead. This will be a union meeting with the juniors. Topic, "World Ideals and How Foreign Missions will Promote Them." Den. 2:25-4:45.

Charles Schultz and Herbert Schultz and families motored to Springfield, Mass., on Saturday.

W. Minard and family of Kingston spent Sunday with Edgar Ellsworth and family.

Charles York and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Shyllis at Port Ewen on Sunday.

Mr. William Roosa of East Kingston called on Kate Roosa on Sunday.

Miss Burkhardt and Miss Siobhach of Brooklyn were guests of Miss Elizabeth Freer last week.

One of our charming young ladies, Miss Ruth Krom, and Edgar Ackerman, of Auburn, N. Y., were married on Saturday evening at the Reformed parsonage at Tilton by the Rev. J. Millett. They were accompanied by Miss Sarah Van Aken and Tracy Van Vliet. On Sunday morning the young couple left for Auburn, where they will make their future home. They have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy married life.
